

Banking industry should not chase after people who do did show they do not want their service. The people's freedom of choice must be protected - not the banks business recovery of lost customers.